You may have received a confirmation for a trade, which does not appear on this statement. If the settlement date of the trade as shown on the confirmation is later than the period ending date that appears at the top of this statement, the trade will appear on your next regular monthly statement.

If this is a margin account and we maintain a special miscellaneous account for you, this is a combined statement of your general account and special miscellaneous account maintained for you under Regulation T issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. The permanent record of the special miscellaneous account as required by Regulation T is available for your inspection at your request.

The per annum rate of interest charged on the debit balance in your account is shown on this statement. This rate may change from time to time in accordance with fluctuations in interest rates. Interests computed from the 16th day of the preceding month to the 15th day of the current month except in December and January. The charges include the last day of the year and, in January; the interest is calculated from the first day of the month. The interest is based on the average daily net debit balance in your account with us and for the actual number of days based on an interest year of 360 days. When calculating margin interest, free credit balances in all accounts will be offset against any debit in the margin account and the interest will be charged on the net debit balance.

It is strongly recommended before engaging in any Options activity that you read and understand the Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options document which is available at <https://apexfintechsolutions.com/legal/disclosures/>.

We are required to report to the Internal Revenue Service all cash dividends and registered bond interest credited to your account on securities held for you in our name. We also report coupon bond interest. All dividends and interest credits should be included in your income tax return.

Information relative to commission and any other charges incurred in connection with listed option transactions occurring during the month has previously been furnished to you in confirmation of such transactions. A summary of this information will be made available to you promptly upon request. Exercise assignment notices for option contracts are allocated among customer short positions pursuant to a manual procedure which randomly selects from among all customer short option positions including those contracts which are subject to exercise. All short American style option positions are liable for assignment at any time whereas European style options are assigned at expiration. A more detailed description of our random allocation procedure is available upon request.

You are to promptly advise your brokerage firm or bank of any material changes concerning your investment objectives or financial situation.

Our financial statement is available for your personal inspection at our office, or a copy of it will be mailed upon your written request.

SIPC Protection. As a member of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC), funds are available to most customer claims up to a ceiling of $500,000, including a maximum of $250,000 for cash claims. For additional information regarding SIPC coverage, including a brochure, please contact SIPC at (202) 371-8300 or visit www.sipc.org. Apex has purchased an additional insurance policy through a group of London Underwriters to supplement SIPC protection. This additional insurance policy becomes available to customers in the event that SIPC limits are exhausted and provides protection for securities and cash up to certain limits. Similar to SIPC protection this additional insurance does not protect against a loss in the market value of securities.

Any free credit balance represents funds payable upon demand which, although properly accounted for on our books of records, is not segregated, and may be used in the conduct of this firm's business as permissible under the SEC Rule 15c3-2.

Apex is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and various other exchanges. Apex acts as a clearing agent for your trades. As required under SEC rules, both the Firm's Order Routing Report as well as information regarding specific order routing information is available free of charge upon request. Your account, which was introduced to us by your broker or bank, is established under your name on a "fully disclosed" basis at Apex. As a clearing agent, we provide securities clearance and may provide order execution on your broker's or bank's instructions. You will remain a customer of your broker or bank. Apex will not be involved with or have any responsibility for decisions regarding securities transactions in your account. Your broker or bank will be responsible for opening, approving and monitoring all activities in connection with your account. The entry of orders, and any instructions regarding the deposit or withdrawal of securities or monies should be made through your broker or bank.

Customers with securities on loan have agreed to participate in the Fully-Paid Securities Lending program ("FPSL") and should be aware that shares on loan are not covered by SIPC or FDIC. The provisions of the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970 ("SIPA") may not protect the customer with respect to the customer's securities loan transaction and that the collateral delivered to the customer may constitute the only source of satisfaction of the member's obligation in the event the borrower fails to return the securities. Other risk and characteristics of participation in the FPSL program include, but are not limited to: 1) the loss of voting rights, 2) apex's ability to use the loan securities for additional loans and apex's ability to earn a spread or and/or other profit, 3) lack of guarantee of receiving best rates, 4) risks associated with each type of collateral, 5) that the securities may be "hard-to-borrow" because of short-selling or may be used to satisfy delivery requirements resulting from short sales, 6) potential adverse tax consequences, including payments deemed cash-in-lieu of dividend paid on securities while on loan, 7) apex's right to liquidate the transaction because of a condition of the kind specified in FINRA rule 4314(b), and 8) the factors that determine the amount of compensation received by apex or paid to customer in connection with the use of the securities borrowed from the customer lack of interest on cash collateral. For specific details, please consult the FPSL Master Securities Lending Agreement and Important Disclosures Regarding Risks and Characteristics of Participating in FPSL documents available on Apex's website at: <https://apexfintechsolutions.com/legal/disclosures/>

Cash securities collateralizing shares are held at JP Morgan Chase & Co. Please consult the Fully Paid Lending Trust Agreement available on Apex's website at <https://apexfintechsolutions.com/legal/disclosures/> for additional details.

MARKET VALUE:

The value shown for each security position in your portfolio is obtained from third-party pricing services based on closing prices, bond yields, and/or mean bid and ask on the last day of the statement period, when available. For certain illiquid or infrequently traded securities, these values may be estimates that do not reflect actual market value or the amount you would receive upon sale. Actual market value may differ, particularly for inactive or infrequently traded securities, or those for which a market quotation is not available. Some securities may be listed as "Unpriced" because no reliable market price could be determined. Both unpriced securities and those showing estimated values may not be readily marketable, may be illiquid, and you may not be able to sell them at the stated value, or at all. For updated quotations, please contact your broker or bank. For foreign securities, market prices shown are subject to currency conversion rates and both prices and exchange rates can fluctuate, impacting the actual value or liquidity of your position.

Bond prices might differ from current market quotes. Similarly, bond ratings may differ from current actual ratings. Computerized pricing and rating services are often unable to supply us with up-to-the-minute information. Your broker or bank will be pleased to obtain a current quotation upon request.

ESTIMATED ANNUAL INCOME:

The current annual dividend or bond interest rate for each security held, if available from quotation services. The rate is multiplied by the number of shares or par value of bonds to determine estimated annual income.

FDIC INSURED DEPOSIT BANK BALANCES:

Purchases, reinvestments and liquidations of money market funds, plus redemptions of money market fund checks.

Order Routing:

The SEC requires all broker-dealers that route orders in equity securities and options to make available quarterly reports that present a general overview of their routing practices. The reports must identify the significant venues to which customer orders were routed for execution during the applicable quarter and disclose the material aspects of the broker-dealer's relationship with such venues. In addition, the Rule (SEC 606) requires broker-dealers to disclose, on customer request, the venues to which the individual customer's orders were routed for the six months prior to the request, and the execution time for the orders that were executed. For further information, please contact your broker or financial advisor.

PLEASE RETAIN THIS STATEMENT AS IT WILL BE HELPFUL IN PREPARING YOUR INCOME TAX RETURNS AND MAY BE NEEDED ALONG WITH SUBSEQUENT STATEMENTS TO VERIFY INTEREST CHARGES IN YOUR ACCOUNT. ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING

Federal law requires all financial institutions to gather, verify, and record information that identifies each person opening an account. Apex Clearing Corporation's ("Apex") supports government mandates in combating terrorism funding and money laundering via the Customer Identification Program ("CIP"). Below is a summary of the information and identifying documents that are required, and may be requested, to open accounts.

What types of information will I need to provide?

When you open an account, Apex and your introducing firm are required to collect the following information:

- Name
- Date of birth
- Address
- Identification Number:
 - US Citizen: Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN), such as a Social Security Number (SSN) or Employer Identification Number (EIN)
 - Non-US Citizen: TIN (if available), passport number and country of issuance, alien identification card number, or other government-issued identification showing nationality, residence, and a photograph of you.
- For joint accounts, each account owner must provide this information
- Additional identifying documentation, such as your driver's license or other identification documents, may also be required to verify your identity.
- Corporations, partnerships, trusts, or other legal entities may need to provide additional information, such as their principal place of business, local office, employer identification number, certified articles of incorporation, government-issued business license, partnership agreement, or trust agreement. In accordance with the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) Customer Due Diligence (CDD) Rule (31 CFR 1010.230), Apex and your introducing firm are also required to identify and verify the identity of beneficial owners (generally, individuals who own 25% or more of the legal entity) and one individual with

- Furthermore, the United States Department of the Treasury, the United States Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"), and the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") may require you to provide additional details, including net worth, annual income, occupation, employment information, investment experience and objectives, and risk tolerance.

What happens if I don't provide the information requested or my identity can't be verified?

If you do not provide the requested information, or if we cannot verify your identity, we may be unable to open an account or process transactions for you. If an account has already been opened, it may be restricted or closed. Accounts may also be subject to screening and restrictions to comply with U.S. economic and trade sanctions administered by the Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC).

PRIVACY AND DATA PROTECTION

Apex Clearing Corporation has made some important changes to how we handle, disclose or otherwise process your personal information. These changes are covered by new and updated privacy notices which can be found on our website at www.apexfintechsolutions.com/privacy. The new privacy notice that is applicable to you will go into effect on February 28, 2026.

What has changed?

Our US Consumer Privacy Notice applies to you if you reside within the United States and its territories. If you reside outside of this geographic area, our Global Consumer Privacy Notice applies to you. You can find a summary of changes for each of these below and we have provided you with a copy of our new US Consumer Privacy Notice with this disclosure statement.

US Consumer Privacy Notice

- We have moved to using the model privacy notice form under federal financial privacy laws that many other financial institutions in the United States use. We believe this brings clarity and that the format is more familiar to our customers.
- We have updated and changed the reasons we can share your personal information, depending on the state you reside in.
- We provide you with the ability to limit some types of our sharing of your information through the US Consumer Privacy Choices section of our website.

Global Consumer Privacy Notice

- We have added information regarding how we may use your personal information to market or advertise certain products or services directly to you where we have a lawful basis to do so.
- We have made minor updates to improve general clarity and accuracy of the notice along with other updates to comply with changes in applicable privacy laws.
- You can find this notice in full on our website along with Portuguese and Spanish translations.

Both our US Consumer Privacy Notice and Global Consumer Privacy Notices have also been updated to include the processing

MARGIN DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

Apex is furnishing this document to provide you with basic facts about purchasing securities on margin, and to alert you to the risks involved with trading securities in a margin account. Before trading in a margin account, you should carefully review the margin agreement provided by your broker. Consult your broker and/or registered investment advisor regarding any questions or concerns you may have with your margin accounts. You will be charged interest on any margin debit balance; margin interest rates are variable, interest accrues daily and may compound, and interest charges will increase your losses and reduce returns.

When you purchase securities, you may pay for the securities in full or you may borrow part of the purchase price from your brokerage firm. If you choose to borrow funds from your firm, you will open a margin account with the firm. The securities held in your account will be used as the firm's collateral for the loan to you. If the securities in your account decline in value, so does the value of the collateral supporting your loan, and as a result, the firm can take action, such as issue a margin call and/or sell securities in your account, in order to maintain the required equity in the account. Margin requirements include initial margin (set by Regulation T of the Federal Reserve Board and by your firm) and ongoing maintenance margin (set by exchanges and your firm's "house" requirements). You must satisfy margin calls promptly to avoid liquidation.

It is important that you fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin. These risks include the following:

- You can lose more funds than you deposit in the margin account
A decline in the value of securities that are purchased on margin may require you to provide additional funds to the firm that has made the loan to avoid the forced sale of those securities or other securities in your account. If you do not meet margin calls when due, the firm may liquidate positions and you will be responsible for any resulting deficit.
- The firm can force the sale of securities in your account
If the equity in your account falls below the maintenance margin requirements under the law, or the firm's higher "house" requirements, the firm can sell the securities in your account to cover the margin deficiency. You also will be responsible for any shortfall in the account after such a sale. Liquidations may occur without prior notice and at prices available in the market, which may be unfavorable.

- The firm can sell your securities without contacting you
Some investors mistakenly believe that a firm must contact them for a margin call to be valid, and that the firm cannot liquidate securities in their accounts to meet the call unless the firm has contacted them first. This is not the case. Most firms will attempt to notify their customers of margin calls, but they are not required to do so. However, even if a firm has contacted a customer and provided a specific date by which the customer can meet a margin call, the firm can still take necessary steps to protect its financial interest, including immediately selling the securities without notice to the customer.
- You are not entitled to choose which security in your margin account is liquidated or sold to meet a margin call
Because the securities are collateral for the margin loan, the firm has the right to decide which security to sell in order to protect its interests. Sales may include securities you intended to hold for the long term.
- The firm can increase its "house" maintenance margin requirement at any time and is not required to provide you with advance written notice
These changes in firm policy often take effect immediately and may result in the issuance of a maintenance margin call. Your failure to satisfy the call may cause the member to liquidate or sell securities in your account. House requirements may vary by security and market conditions and can be raised in periods of volatility.
- You are not entitled to an extension of time on a margin call
While an extension of time to meet margin requirements may be available to customers under certain conditions, a customer does not have a right to the extension. Any extension is at the firm's sole discretion and may be revoked.
- Short selling involves additional risks and may result in losses beyond your initial investment
Short sales are margin transactions. If the price of a security you have sold short rises, your potential loss is unlimited. You are responsible for paying any dividends on borrowed shares, and your short position may be subject to buy-ins or recalls without prior notice.
- The IRS requires Broker Dealers to treat dividend payments on loaned securities positions as "substitute payments" in lieu of a dividends
When securities in your account are lent, "substitute payments" you receive in lieu of dividends are generally taxed as ordinary income and are not eligible for the reduced tax rate applicable to qualified dividends. You should consult a tax advisor regarding your specific situation.
- Industry regulations may limit, in whole or in part, your ability to exercise voting rights of securities that have been lent or pledged to others
Because securities held in a margin account may be lent or pledged, your ability to exercise voting rights may be limited or eliminated for those shares. You may receive proxy materials indicating voting rights for fewer shares than are in your account, or you may not receive any proxy materials. If you wish to vote, contact your introducing firm well before the proxy record date to request that shares be held or recalled; such requests are not guaranteed and may reduce your margin availability.

DAY-TRADING RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

You should consider the following points before engaging in a day-trading strategy. For purpose of this notice, a “day trading strategy” means an overall trading strategy characterized by the regular transmission by a customer of intra-day orders to effect both purchase and sale transactions in the same security or securities.

- Day trading can be extremely risky
Day trading is not appropriate for someone with limited resources, limited investment or trading experience, or low risk tolerance. You should be prepared to lose all of the funds that you use for day trading. You should not fund day-trading activities with student loans, second mortgages, emergency funds, funds set aside for education or home ownership, or funds required to meet your living expenses.
- Be cautious of claims of large profits from day trading
You should be wary of advertisements or other statements that emphasize the potential for large profits as a result of day trading. Day trading can lead to large and immediate financial losses.
- Day trading requires knowledge of securities markets
Successful day trading requires in-depth knowledge of market structure, trading venues, order types, and execution quality. You may be competing with professional traders and automated systems. You should have appropriate experience before engaging in day trading.
- Day trading requires knowledge of a firm's operations
You should be familiar with a securities firm's business practices, including the operation of the firm's order execution systems and procedures. Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position quickly at a reasonable price, including during trading halts and extreme volatility. This can occur, for example, when the market for a stock suddenly drops, or if trading is halted due to recent news events or unusual trading activity. The more volatile a stock is, the greater the likelihood that problems may be encountered in executing a transaction. In addition to normal market risks, you may experience losses due to system failures, connectivity issues, or delays.
- Day trading will generate substantial commissions, even if the per trade cost is low Frequent trading results in significant transaction costs (commissions, fees, and taxes). Even low per-trade costs can compound into substantial monthly or annual expenses that reduce or eliminate profits. You must earn returns sufficient to cover these costs before realizing any net gain.
- Day trading on margin or short selling may result in losses beyond your initial investment Day trading often involves margin. If the value of securities purchased on margin declines, you may be required to deposit additional funds to avoid forced liquidation. Short selling can result in unlimited losses if a security's price rises. Short positions may be subject to buy-ins or recalls without prior notice, and you are responsible for any dividends or other distributions on borrowed shares.

- Pattern Day Trader (PDT) designation and current requirements

Under FINRA Rule 4210, an account that executes four or more day trades within five business days and where those day trades constitute more than six percent of total trades for that period may be designated a "Pattern Day Trader." PDT accounts must maintain a minimum equity of $25,000 and are subject to additional margin requirements and restrictions. If the required equity is not maintained, the firm may restrict or liquidate positions.

Important: FINRA's Board of Governors has approved moving forward with proposed changes to day-trader requirements; however, any changes are not effective until approved by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and announced by FINRA with an effective date. Until SEC approval and a FINRA effective date are issued, the existing $25,000 PDT requirements remain in force.

- Potential Registration Requirements

Persons providing investment advice for others or managing securities accounts for others may need to register as either an "Investment Advisor" under the Investment Advisors Act of 1940 or as a "Broker" or "Dealer" under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such activities may also trigger state registration requirements.

- Additional Considerations

Not all order types or market protections are available at all times or on all venues. Extended-hours trading typically has lower liquidity and wider spreads, which can increase execution risk. Consider using limit orders to help manage price risk. Options, futures, and other derivatives involve additional risks; review the applicable risk disclosures (including the OCC's Options Disclosure Document) before trading such products.

BUSINESS CONTINUITY PLAN

Apex maintains a Business Continuity Plan ("BCP") and Disaster Recovery Plan ("DRP") designed to ensure that critical business functions can continue during significant disruptions. The plans address events that may affect only our primary facilities, our business district, or an entire region.

Key components of our plans include geographically separate data centers, redundant systems, backup facilities, alternative processing arrangements with critical vendors and counterparties, and multiple communication methods for clients, introducing firms, and employees.

Our recovery time objective (RTO) for critical processes, such as order processing and routing, transaction settlement and custody, and access to funds and securities, is within 24 hours of a disruption. Actual recovery times may be shorter or longer depending on the nature and scope of the event, market-wide closures, or infrastructure outages. Data is replicated to alternate sites; however, some transactions or updates may be delayed or temporarily unavailable during a disruption.

What you should do:

In the event of a significant disruption, first contact your introducing broker-dealer or registered investment advisor through their usual channels. If those are unavailable, please visit www.apexclearing.com (or www.apexfintechsolutions.com) for status updates and instructions. During a disruption, you may experience delays in reaching customer service, but our plan is designed to restore your ability to access account information, enter orders, and request funds as quickly as conditions permit.

Plan governance and testing:

Our BCP/DRP are reviewed and tested at least annually, after material business changes, and following significant events. Findings from testing are used to update procedures, systems, and vendor arrangements.

Limitations and changes:

No continuity plan can eliminate all risk or guarantee uninterrupted service. The plans may be modified at any time. A current summary of our BCP is available on our website at www.apexclearing.com.

DISCLOSURE OF PAYMENT FOR ORDER FLOW AND ORDER ROUTING INFORMATION

Apex is committed to transparency regarding order routing and execution. Pursuant to SEC Rule 606(a), Apex makes publicly available quarterly reports on the routing of non-directed customer orders in NMS stocks (submitted on a held basis) and non-directed customer orders in NMS options. These reports identify the venues to which we route orders, include venue-level statistics (e.g., top venues and any venue receiving 5% or more of non-directed orders), and disclose net aggregate payments for order flow, profit-sharing payments, transaction fees, and rebates by order type. Reports are posted within one month after quarter-end, remain available for at least three years, and use the SEC's required XML schema and PDF renderer. Apex publishes these reports via its website (see the Disclosures/Rule 606 section at www.apexclearing.com), which may link to a third-party provider (e.g., S3 Matching Technologies) that hosts the data.

Under SEC Rule 606(b), customers may request a report showing, for the prior six months, the venues to which their orders were routed, whether those orders were directed or non-directed, and the times of any resulting transactions. For not-held orders in NMS stocks, Rule 606(b)(3) requires a customer-specific handling report by calendar month to be provided within seven business days of the request. Apex will facilitate these reports through your introducing broker-dealer or registered investment advisor. Apex (or your introducing firm) will provide an annual written notice of the availability of these customer-specific routing reports.

Payment for Order Flow (SEC Rule 607 and SEC Rule 10b-10). Apex may receive compensation (or pay fees) when routing certain equity and options orders to specific venues, including exchanges, market makers, and alternative trading systems. This compensation, commonly referred to as “payment for order flow”, can take the form of per-share or per-contract cash payments or rebates; Apex may also pay access or routing fees to certain venues. Apex provides an annual customer disclosure describing our payment for order flow practices pursuant to Rule 607 and, on trade confirmations pursuant to Rule 10b-10, indicates whether payment for order flow was received and that the source and nature of such compensation will be furnished upon written request. Apex may, in some instances, execute orders as principal; where applicable, this will be disclosed on your trade confirmation. These arrangements may present potential conflicts of interest; however, Apex and your introducing firm remain obligated to seek best execution, evaluating factors such as price, speed, likelihood of execution, and overall transaction costs. Additional details regarding the source and nature of any payment for order flow arrangements are available upon written request.

SEC RULE 10b-10

SEC Rule 10b-10 generally requires broker-dealers to send a written trade confirmation at or before completion of each securities transaction. Confirmations disclose required information such as the capacity in which the firm acted (agent or principal), the price, commissions or mark-ups/mark-downs, and, where applicable, whether payment for order flow was received and that the source and nature of such compensation will be furnished upon written request. The time of execution will be provided upon request.

Exceptions and alternative notifications. The SEC has provided exceptions and no-action relief permitting summary reporting on periodic account statements, instead of immediate separate confirmations, for certain automatic or systematic transactions when there are no other trades in your account on that day. You will not receive an immediate trade confirmation for the following:

- Automatic investments or reinvestments in eligible money market funds (including sweep transactions and dividend reinvestments).
- Transactions made under a Dividend Reinvestment Program (DRIP) for stocks or ETFs.
- Systematic or periodic purchases or redemptions of investment company (mutual fund) shares.

A comprehensive summary of these transactions will be reported on your monthly or quarterly account statement, and details may be available via your introducing firm’s online platform. You may request specific transaction information (including execution time) from your introducing broker-dealer or registered investment advisor at any time.

SIPC INFORMATION

Apex is a member of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (“SIPC”), which protects the securities customers of its members up to $500,000, including a maximum of $250,000 for claims of cash. Customers may obtain information about SIPC, including the SIPC brochure, at sipc.org or by calling 1-202-371-8300.

Apex also maintains additional insurance to supplement SIPC protection, widely referred to as “excess SIPC”, with an aggregate firmwide limit of $150 million, subject to sub-limits for any one customer of $37.5 million for securities and $900,000 for cash. This additional insurance policy becomes available to securities customers if SIPC limits are exhausted.

Please note that both SIPC and excess SIPC coverage protect against the loss of securities and cash due to the insolvency of a brokerage firm, not against trading losses or fluctuations/depreciation in the market value of customer securities

INVESTOR EDUCATION AND PROTECTION

FINRA Rule 2267 requires Apex to provide information about FINRA’s BrokerCheck program. An investor brochure that includes information describing the BrokerCheck program may be obtained from FINRA. The FINRA BrokerCheck hotline number is (800) 289-9999. The FINRA web site address is www.FINRA.org.

MUTUAL FUNDS – CHARGES, BREAKPOINTS, AND FEES

Before investing in mutual funds, it is important that you understand the sales charges, expenses, and management fees that you will be charged, as well as the breakpoint discounts to which you may be entitled. Understanding these charges and breakpoint discounts will assist you in identifying the best investment for your particular needs and may help you to reduce the cost of your investment. Information about charges, discounts, sales charges, expenses, management fees and breakpoint discounts vary from mutual fund to mutual fund. Therefore, you should discuss these matters with your firm and review each mutual fund’s prospectus and statement of additional information to obtain the specific information regarding the charges and breakpoint discounts associated with a particular mutual fund.

In addition, most mutual funds offer different share classes. Although each share class represents a similar interest in a mutual fund’s portfolio, the mutual fund will charge you different fees and expenses depending upon the share class selected. As a general rule, Class A shares carry a “front-end” sales charge or “load” that is deducted from your investment at the time you buy shares. This sales charge is a percentage of your total purchase. Further, many mutual funds offer volume discounts to the front-end sales charge assessed on Class A shares at certain pre-determined levels of investment, which are called “breakpoint discounts.” Conversely, Class B and C shares usually do not carry any front-end sales charges. Instead, investors that purchase Class B or C shares pay asset-based sales charges, which may be higher than the charges associated with Class A shares, and investors that purchase Class B and C shares may be required to pay a sales charges known as a contingent deferred sales charge when they sell their shares, depending upon the rules of the particular mutual fund. To learn more about mutual fund share classes, charges, breakpoints, and fees, you may want to consider reviewing the following FINRA investor information: <https://www.finra.org/investors/investing/investment-products/mutual-funds>

The firm with which you have opened your securities account has retained Apex to provide certain record keeping or operational services. These services, such as the execution and settlement of securities transactions, custody of securities and cash balances, and extension of credit on margin transactions, are provided under a Fully Disclosed Clearing Agreement between Apex and your broker-dealer. As a member of FINRA, Apex is required to disclose to you the details of its Fully Disclosed Clearing Agreement with your broker-dealer, which are summarized below.

Responsibilities of Your Introducing Broker-Dealer

Your introducing broker-dealer has the responsibility to:

- Approve the opening of your account
- Obtain necessary documentation to help fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities
- Service and supervise your account through its own personnel in accordance with its own policies, procedures, applicable laws, and regulators
- Know you and your stated investment objectives
- Provide appropriate investment advice, recommendations, or management services based on your investment objectives
- Determine whether particular kinds of transactions such as margin, option, and short sale are appropriate for you
- Obtain the initial margin as required by Regulation T if a margin account is opened for you
- Accept and, in certain instances, execute securities orders
- Know the facts about any orders for the purpose or sales of securities in your account
- Comply with fair pricing and disclosure responsibilities (if your firm is a market maker in any securities or otherwise trades as principal with you)
- Correctly identify and promptly forward funds or securities intended for your account to Apex
- Supervise the activities of any individual who services your account, resolve any complaints regarding the handling of your account and manage the ongoing relationship that it has with you

Apex has no involvement and assumes no responsibility in all of the above matters relating to the servicing of your account.

Responsibilities of Apex

In general, Apex is only responsible to perform the services within the scope of the Fully Disclosed Clearing Agreement that your broker-dealer specifically requests Apex to perform. For example, Apex may fulfill the following responsibilities on behalf of your account at your broker-dealer's instruction:

- Create computer-based account records
- Process orders for the purchase, sale, or transfer of securities (Apex is not obligated to accept orders directly from you and will do so only at Apex's discretion in exceptional circumstances)
- Receive and deliver funds and securities
- Record such receipts and deliveries according to information provided either by your firm or directly, in writing, by you
- Hold securities and cash in custody (after it comes into Apex's physical possession or control)
- Collect and disburse dividends and interest
- Process reorganization and voting instructions with respect to securities held in custody
- Prepare and transmit confirmations of trades to you with the exception of the following transactions which will alternatively appear on account statements:
 - Systemic investments or withdrawals of investment company products
 - Transactions in money market funds that have no purchase or redemption fees
 - Dividend reinvestments
 - Prepare and transmit periodic account statements summarizing transactions
- Provide your firm with written reports of all transactions processed for your account to enable your firm to carry out its responsibilities under the Fully Disclosed Clearing Agreement
- Assist you and your firm with any discrepancies or errors that may occur in the processing of transactions.

If your broker-dealer opened a margin account for you, Apex may:

- Loan money to you for the purpose of purchasing or holding securities (subject to the terms of Apex's, margin agreement, margin policies and applicable margin regulations)
- Calculate the amount of maintenance margin required and advise you of those requirements (usually through your firm)
- Calculate any interest charged on your debit balance

Apex maintains the books and records required by law and business practice. The Fully Disclosed Clearing Agreement does not encompass transactions in investments other than marketable securities, which Apex normally processes on recognized exchanges and over-the-counter ("OTC") markets. In furnishing services under the Fully Disclosed Clearing Agreement, Apex may use and rely upon the services of clearing agencies, automatic data processing vendors, proxy processing, transfer agents, securities pricing services and other similar organizations. This document addresses the basic allocation of functions regarding the handling of your account. It is not meant as a definite enumeration of every possible circumstance, but only as a general disclosure.

Further, regardless of whether your account has been introduced by a broker-dealer or a registered investment advisor, Apex does not control, audit, or otherwise supervise the activities of the introducing firm or its employees, and is not responsible for their compliance with laws or regulations. Apex does not verify information provided by your introducing firm regarding your account or transactions processed for your account, nor does Apex undertake any responsibility for reviewing the appropriateness or suitability of transactions entered by your introducing firm on your behalf. Apex does not provide investment advice and does not act as a fiduciary to you. Any questions or complaints regarding the handling of your account or the advice you have received should be directed to your introducing firm.

EXTENDED HOURS TRADING RISK DISCLOSURE

Risk of Lower Liquidity

Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower levels of liquidity in extended hours trading as compared to regular market hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all.

Risk of Higher Volatility

Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security, the greater its price swings. There may be greater levels of volatility in extended hours trading than in regular market hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or you may receive an inferior price in extended hours trading to what you might receive during regular market hours.

Risk of Changing Prices

The prices of securities traded in extended hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular market hours, or upon the opening of the next morning. As a result, you may receive an inferior price in extended hours trading to what you might receive during regular market hours.

Risk of Unlinked Markets

Depending on the extended hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on a particular extended hour's system may not reflect the prices on other concurrently operating extended hours trading systems dealing in the same securities. Accordingly, you may receive an inferior price on one extended hours trading system than you might receive on another extended hours trading system.

Risk of News Announcements

Normally, issuers release news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular market hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular market hours. In extended hours trading, these announcements may occur during trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.

Risk of Wider Spreads

The spread refers to the difference in price between what you can buy a security for and what you can sell it for. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in extended hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security.

Risk of Lack of Calculation or Dissemination of Underlying Index Value or Intraday Indicative Value ("IIV") For certain Derivative Securities Products, an updated underlying index value, or IIV, may not be calculated or publicly disseminated in extended trading hours. Since the underlying index value and IIV are not calculated or widely disseminated during the pre-market and post-market sessions an investor who is unable to calculate implied values for certain Derivative Securities Products in those sessions may be at a disadvantage to market professionals.

LIENS AND LEVIES

If, for any reason, your account(s) is/are subject to a lien or levy directed to Apex, Apex will abide by the directions of the federal, state, or other levying authority unless it receives:

- A court order staying or quashing the lien or levy
- Some other form of release from the levying authority

If Apex receives a lien or levy on your account, you may be assessed a reasonable processing fee. Questions concerning liens or levies may be directed to Apex via <https://apexfintechsolutions.com/contact-us/>.

REGULATION E

Regulation E of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System requires disclosure regarding electronic transfers. Electronic transfers include:

- Authorized Debits
A client provides their checking account information to a company (such as mortgage, utility) and the company electronically sends debits directly to the client's checking account, which debits the brokerage account.
- Debit Card Transactions
Any merchant purchase, automatic teller machine (ATM) withdrawal or cash advance done with the debit card issued from the account.
- Check Conversion
A client provides checks for deposit into their Apex accounts which Apex scans and converts them into either an image replacement document (IRD) or ACH file.

Questions concerning electronic transfers may be directed to your firm.

CALLABLE SECURITIES

Once a security is deemed callable (callable security) by the issuer, DTC or the custodian will notify Apex of the call and Apex will implement a random lottery call process, based on account eligibility. Eligibility for the random lottery process is based on the securities call classification of 'favorable redemption call' or 'unfavorable redemption call'. The term favorable or unfavorable is based on a comparison between the call price and the market price. When the comparison between the call price and market price are beneficial to the account, the call is deemed favorable. Favorable redemption calls will exclude any account in which Apex, or its associated persons have an interest until all other customers' positions in such securities have been satisfied.

An unfavorable redemption call is when the comparison between the call price and market price are not as beneficial to the account and therefore deemed unfavorable. Apex will not exclude its positions or those of its associated persons (including those persons performing solely clerical and ministerial functions) from the pool of any securities deemed unfavorable and eligible to be called. A determination will be made as to which redemption call the security is subject to (favorable or unfavorable) prior to commencement of the lottery process.

Once the terms of the call have been determined and eligible accounts have been selected, the random lottery process will occur to select accounts for the partial call redemption. A random start and jump number is executed at the beginning of the lottery to ensure the process is impartial, fair and consistent with the call allocation. When the redemption call has ended for each security, Apex is notified of the called account by its vendor and will inform your Introducing Broker or Advisor, who may notify you of your account status, if applicable.

MSRB DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENT

Rule G-10 of the MSRB requires annual notification of the following information:

FINANCIAL EXPLOITATION OF SPECIFIED ADULTS AND TRUSTED CONTACT PERSON

Under FINRA Rule 4512, Apex is required to disclose to you (the customer) that Apex or an associated person of Apex is authorized to contact the trusted contact person you may have identified in your account opening documents and disclose information about your account to address possible financial exploitation, to confirm the specifics of your current contact information, health status, or the identity of any legal guardian, executor, trustee or holder of a power of attorney, or as otherwise permitted by FINRA Rule 2165.

DIVIDEND REINVESTMENT PROGRAM

You can automatically reinvest cash dividend payments back into the underlying stock or ETF with the dividend reinvestment program (DRIP). This is a free service for securities primarily trading above $5 and not over-the-counter (OTC) traded. Because of the waiting period between record date and payable date, cash dividends will be reinvested during market hours on the trading day after the dividend pay date. Note, your dividend may not be reinvested for a variety of reasons, such as the security is no longer eligible for dividend reinvestment, the dividend was voided, reversed, or modified, or the market is closed and the dividend should be reinvested on the next trading day.

If you choose to enroll and participate in DRIP, SEC Rule 10b-10 requires that Apex provides you with written notification if certain transactions are not reported immediately to you through confirmation of the transaction before or at the time of the transaction. In accordance with SEC Rule 10b-10, pursuant to the SEC's no-action relief provided in certain circumstances concerning the automatic reinvestment of cash dividends, Apex will not generate an individual transaction confirmation for transactions involving DRIP if there are no other transactions in your brokerage account on the day the automatic reinvestment of the cash dividend occurs.

Instead, a comprehensive summary of DRIP transactions will be reported in your monthly or quarterly brokerage account statements. Additionally, you may access your DRIP transaction history via your introducing broker-dealer or registered investment advisor's online platform which provides near real-time access to details of DRIP transactions. You may also call or email your introducing broker-dealer or registered investment advisor's customer support team if you have any inquiries or need clarification about specific DRIP transactions.

By maintaining your account enrollment in DRIP account under these conditions, you consent to this alternative method of receiving confirmations of the DRIP transaction in your account. If you prefer to opt-out of DRIP, please contact your introducing broker-dealer or registered investment advisor's customer service team. You can also contact Apex investor help team via the submission of a ticket on Apex's Investor Help site at <https://investorhelp.apexfintechsolutions.com/hc/en-us>.

At Apex, we understand that privacy is an important issue for customers of our introducing firms. It is our policy to respect the privacy of all accounts that we maintain as clearing broker and to protect the security and confidentiality of non-public personal information relating to those accounts. Please note that this policy generally applies to former customers of Apex as well as current customers.

Personal Information Collected:

In order to service your account as a clearing broker, information is provided to Apex by your introducing firm who collects information from you in order to provide the financial services that you have requested. The information collected by your introducing firm and provided to Apex or otherwise obtained by Apex may come from the following sources and is not limited to:

- Information included in your applications or forms, such as your name, address, telephone number, social security number, occupation, and income.
- Information relating to your transactions, including account balances, positions, and activity.
- Information which may be received from consumer reporting agencies, such as credit bureau reports.
- Information relating to your creditworthiness.
- Information which may be received from other sources with your consent or with the consent of your introducing firm.

In addition to servicing your account, Apex may make use of your personal information for analysis purposes, for example, to draw conclusions, detect patterns or determine preferences.

Sharing of Nonpublic Personal Information:

Apex does not disclose non-public personal information relating to current or former customers of introducing firms to any third parties, except as required or permitted by law, including but not limited to any obligations of Apex under the USA PATRIOT Act, and in order to facilitate the clearing of customer transactions in the ordinary course of business.

Apex has multiple affiliates and relationships with third party companies. Examples of these companies include financial and non-financial companies that perform services such as data processing and companies that perform securities executions on your behalf. We may share information among our affiliates and third parties, as permitted by law, in order to better service your financial needs and to pursue legitimate business interests, including to carry out, monitor and analyze our business, systems and operations.

Apex may use "cookies" in order to provide better service, to facilitate its customers' use of the website, to track usage of the website, and to address security hazards. A cookie is a small piece of information that a website stores on a personal computer, and which it can later retrieve.

Security:

Apex strives to ensure that our systems are secure and that they meet industry standards. We seek to protect non- public personal information that is provided to Apex by your introducing firm or otherwise obtained by Apex by implementing physical and electronic safeguards. Where we believe appropriate, we employ firewalls, encryption technology, user authentication systems (i.e. passwords and personal identification numbers) and access control mechanisms to control access to systems and data. Apex endeavors to ensure that third party service providers who may have access to non-public personal information are following appropriate standards of security and confidentiality. Further, we instruct our employees to use strict standards of care in handling the personal financial information of customers. As a general policy, our staff will not discuss or disclose information regarding an account except; 1) with authorized personnel of your introducing firm, 2) as required by law or pursuant to regulatory request, or 3) as authorized by Apex to a third party or affiliate providing services to your account or pursuing Apex's legitimate business interests.

Access to Your Information:

You may access your account information through a variety of media offered by your introducing firm and Apex (i.e. statements or online services). Please contact your introducing firm if you require any additional information.

Changes to Apex's Privacy Policy:

Apex reserves the right to make changes to this policy.
